RE: Forensic Videographer Ken Glaza

Dear Fellow Criminal Defense Lawyers:

I want to personally take the time to say a few words about Mr. Ken Glaza of K & R Audio Video Forensic Consultants. Mr. Glaza is the absolute best in his field, and whenever I receive audio, video, or other electronic discovery from the Prosecutors, it goes straight to Mr. Glaza for review, in-depth analysis, and/or enhancement.

Mr. Glaza learned from the best; he was trained in video forensics by Tom Owens, who did the forensic analysis and enhancement of the electronic evidence in the George Zimmerman case in Florida. He is professionally certified in Spectral analysis, Data recovery, and Covert Electronics. He is one of only 35 individuals nationwide who are certified in Voice Identification.

With his in-depth analysis and extensive array of advanced equipment, Mr. Glaza is capable of determining whether any audio or video file has been altered in any way. Even if the audio or video has not been altered, Ken can still use the file to discover what parts of the truth are not being seen or heard.

For example, Ken is able to delve many layers deep to analyze and perfect the file to reveal previously invisible or inaudible things. As we all know, what a complainant, police officer, witness, or defendant says or does when an alleged crime occurs can mean the difference between guilt or innocence – and our professional reputation along with it. Where the recording we receive through discovery or investigation is insufficient to bring out the truth, Mr. Glaza is able to add clarity to words and actions.

For these reasons, Mr. Glaza is trusted not only by the best criminal defense attorneys in Michigan, but also by the Prosecuting Attorneys in the most highly populated counties in their high-profile murder cases (which, of course avoids the typical “your bias is always for the defense” prosecutorial attack on our defense expert witnesses).

In-court testimony is yet another advantage that Mr. Glaza has over the competition. We’ve all had the experience where we retain an expert witness who is indeed knowledgeable and qualified in their field, yet folds on the witness stand under a Prosecutor's well-prepared, laborious cross-examination (not to mention their failure to properly engage in the defense attorney's attempt to rehabilitate them on re-direct). Such knowledge is worthless without durability and experience on the witness stand.

After Mr. Glaza finishes his forensic work on the case, his attention then turns to preparing the defense attorney to put him on the stand. Due to his extensive experience in front of the Jury, Mr. Glaza knows how to help the defense attorney prepare to direct examine him, knows what the Prosecutor will cross-examine him on, and knows how to train the defense attorney exactly how to rehabilitate him on re-direct.

Simply put, Ken Glaza of K & R Forensic is recognized as the best there is. If a criminal defense attorney in Michigan were to post a request on one of our many online "listservs" seeking a referral to an expert in this area, there would be at least 10 independent responses recommending Mr. Glaza within minutes. Indeed, that is how I myself first had the great fortune of using Mr. Glaza's services.

Mr. Glaza's website is located at www.kandrforensic.com, and he can be reached at (248)-557-8276. I strongly recommend that you not retain another expert without at least first speaking to Mr. Glaza.

Sincerely,
